Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Monday 22 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
On the cloudy side for many, but staying dry.

Today:
Locally chilly to start. Dry throughout but on the cloudy side for many. Some sunny intervals are possible however, with these perhaps more likely in the far south. Feeling warmer than on Sunday, especially in the east. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying dry overnight, with developing clear spells perhaps allowing a touch of frost and local fog patches in prone spots. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Tuesday:
Staying dry, but otherwise a cloudier and increasingly breezy day, with the south generally brightest and with the best chance of some sunny spells. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Probably rather cloudy with some rain midweek, perhaps repeating Thursday ahead of a more generally unsettled and windier Friday with rain followed by late blustery showers. Temperatures around average overall.
